Style Post: My Kind of Tie

Hi Guys,

I was recently sent this fantastic bow tie by the people at My Kind of Tie for a style post. I was sent the London floral bow tie. It looks pink, but that is the effect that is given off from the red and white silk woven together to make the bow tie. The blue flowers compliment either colour so it is a winner either way! The bow tie retails at €15 and there is free next day delivery to Irish customers. Given that the bow tie is called London, I decided that a dapper London look would be best for this post. The venue I chose for this shoot was the fabulous Faithlegg House Hotel in Faithlegg, Co. Waterford which is a short drive from where I live. I thought it was the perfect setting as the grounds look beautiful in autumn and the interior has a high-class feel that you would expect from any venue of it's stature.

My outfit for this post is as follows:

Trench Coat: River Island

Suit: Zara

Shirt: Burton

Shoes: Next

Bow Tie: My Kind of Tie obviously!

Here are the best shots from the shoot.

I hope you guys liked it. Let me know what you think. I would like to thank the guys at Faithlegg House Hotel for letting me shoot on site click here for more info on the venue. I also want to thank Anthony and the guys at Yellow Machine PR for putting me in touch with My Kind of Tie for this post. I would also like to thank my fiancé Sandra for being the photographer on the day
